

Metformin

This study is to evaluate the efficacy of metformin in reducing insulin levels and improving adrenal androgen control in a prospective, short-term, clinical trial of CAH patients with insulin resistance. To assess the safety of metformin in this new treatment cohort and its overall efficacy as an adjunctive therapy in female CAH patients who exhibit insulin resistance.

For more information, contact Dr. Karen Su at medicaldirector@caresfoundation.org